PRESS RELEASE

Luxempart expands its healthcare commitment and increases its stake in Medios to over 20%

Luxempart has increased its stake in Medios AG to over 20%, underscoring its long-term commitment to the healthcare sector and to primary medical care. In June 2024, Luxempart entered Medios as an anchor shareholder by acquiring a stake from the company's founder. By increasing its stake further, Luxempart now reaffirms its confidence in the management and in the strategy most recently presented at the company's Capital Markets Day.

Medios is a publicly listed European pharma services group operating through the segments Specialty Pharma Supply and Compounding. Working closely with pharmacies, medical specialists and pharmaceutical companies, Medios combines pharmaceutical expertise, manufacturing capabilities and intelligent services to ensure reliable and efficient access to innovative and personalized therapies.

The investment in Medios fits Luxempart's long-standing focus on healthcare as one of its target sectors. Most recently, in December 2025, Luxempart agreed a partnership with VALEARA, a leading provider of ambulatory mental healthcare services in Germany. With Nexus, a European healthcare software provider, Pflegebutler, an outpatient care company, and FX Solutions, a specialist in shoulder implants and surgical instruments, the investment portfolio includes further companies in the healthcare sector. This sector focus extends to Luxempart's Investment Funds strategy, where partnerships with leading specialist fund managers in Europe and North America complement its direct healthcare investments.

On this basis, Luxempart intends to further expand its healthcare commitment and to actively support companies in this sector as a partner in their development.

"We are pleased to help shape the future of Medios as a reliable partner to management and employees. The increase of our stake underscores our confidence in the company, its strategy and our long-term commitment to healthcare," comments Rudolf Ohnesorge, Member of the Group Executive Committee of Luxempart.
